

In 2006, Breakaway continued to be a source of spiritual growth and fellowship for the women and children of St. Andrew's. We began the year with the Alpha program, which focuses on Christian basics. While their mothers were learning about "Who is God and what does He want from me?" the pre-school age children were experiencing a wonderful program of crafts, stories, general playing and loving attention from our excellent crew of volunteers.

When we resumed in September, many of the children had graduated to school-age and a number of mothers returned to work. Breakaway began a study called "Get Acquainted with your Bible." We have looked at how God yearning for a people, created and sustains the world, coming to us in human form and calling to us to live in hope.

This year, as a mission project, Breakaway gave money to support PAN's mission to Nicaragua.

We thank all those who have participated in Breakaway: the kids, the women, the leaders and especially the child care volunteers. I would like to thank two women in particular: Sharon Ireland and Mary Rife, who have served this group faithfully for many years. You have shown the heart of God to the women and children of Breakaway.

Respectfully submitted,
Sharon Duff.
